Performance Commentary

Portfolio transactions occurred over Q2 2026. On May 1, the fund reduced its position in Advanced Micro Devices (AMD), exited Zscaler (ZS) and Energy Transfer (ET), and initiated positions in Vertiv (VRT), Semtech (SMTC), and RTX. On June 26, the fund exited Celsius Holdings (CELH). For the period, the MDC Student Managed Investment Fund posted a portfolio return of approximately 22.00%, increasing NAV from $86,017.61 at the end of Q1 to $104,910.48 at the end of Q2.

Top performers in Q2 included Advanced Micro Devices (AMD), which gained approximately 185.6%, supported by accelerating demand for AI infrastructure and strong data-center growth; Semtech (SMTC), up about 57% from its May 1 acquisition price, following record quarterly sales and continued momentum in its data-center and LoRa businesses; and UnitedHealth Group (UNH), up about 53.6%, after first-quarter results exceeded expectations and the company raised its 2026 earnings outlook.

The fund's weaker positions during the quarter included Alibaba (BABA), which declined approximately 23.5%, as investors weighed weaker profitability and significant spending on AI infrastructure and quick-commerce initiatives, and Salesforce (CRM), down roughly 16.1%, as concerns about AI-related disruption to traditional enterprise software persisted and the company's second-quarter revenue outlook came in slightly below Wall Street expectations despite solid first-quarter results.

In comparison, the S&P 500 Index posted a total return of approximately 15.20% over the same period. The fund outperformed the benchmark by roughly 6.76 percentage points, supported by strong gains in several key holdings including AMD, SMTC, and UNH.

The portfolio's Value at Risk (VaR) is approximately 12% on a quarterly horizon (at the 95% confidence level). This indicates that, under normal market conditions, there is a 5% chance the portfolio could lose 12% or more of its value over one quarter. This metric reflects the fund's exposure to market volatility and helps frame risk in probabilistic terms for the reporting period.

Summary

The fund outperformed the benchmark in Q2 while continuing to actively manage and reposition the portfolio.

Results were supported by strong performance in several technology and healthcare holdings, particularly AMD, SMTC, and UNH, while BABA and CRM were the most significant detractors among end of quarter positions. The portfolio ended the quarter with approximately 30% of NAV held in cash, maintaining liquidity while the fund remains focused on long-term value creation through prudent portfolio management and experiential learning.
