Performance Commentary

Portfolio transactions occurred over Q3 2026. On September 24, the fund initiated positions in GE Aerospace (GE) and Oracle (ORCL). For the period, the MDC Student Managed Investment Fund posted a portfolio return of approximately 2.00%, increasing NAV from $104,910.48 at the end of Q2 to $106,992.55 at the end of Q3.

Top performers in Q3 included Salesforce (CRM), which gained approximately 46.5%, supported by stronger quarterly results, an increase in the company's annual revenue and profit forecasts, and continued momentum in its AI strategy, including an expanded partnership with Anthropic. Alibaba (BABA) which increased approximately 12.0%, supported by continued strength in its cloud and AI businesses as the company increased investment in AI infrastructure and reported strong growth in AI-related cloud and compute services.

The fund's weaker positions during the quarter included Vertiv (VRT), which declined approximately 27.9% despite strong operating results, as investors weighed temporary project-timing and supply-chain issues as well as the company's announced acquisition of Utility Innovation Group for up to approximately $2.6 billion. UnitedHealth Group (UNH) declined approximately 11.7% as investors continued to assess elevated medical-cost trends and longer-term margin pressures across the health-insurance business, despite stronger second-quarter results and an increased full-year earnings outlook.

In comparison, the S&P 500 Index posted a total return of approximately 2.3% over the same period. The fund trailed the benchmark by roughly 0.3 percentage points, as strong gains in CRM and BABA were offset by weakness in VRT and UNH.

The portfolio's Value at Risk (VaR) is approximately 33.91% on a quarterly horizon (at the 95% confidence level). This indicates that, under normal market conditions, there is a 5% chance the portfolio could lose 33.91% or more of its value over one quarter. This metric reflects the fund's exposure to market volatility and helps frame risk in probabilistic terms for the reporting period.

Summary

Although the fund slightly underperformed the benchmark in Q3, it maintained a disciplined and diversified investment approach. Results were supported by strong performance in Salesforce and Alibaba, while Vertiv and UnitedHealth were the most significant detractors among end of quarter positions. The fund also deployed a portion of its cash balance into new positions in GE Aerospace and Oracle during the quarter. The portfolio ended the quarter with approximately 20.7% of NAV held in cash, maintaining liquidity while the fund remains focused on long-term value creation through prudent portfolio management and experiential learning.
